State makes $750,000 commitment to maintaining homeownership through home repairs in Terry County

(AUSTIN) — The Texas Department of Housing and Community Affairs (TDHCA) today awarded $375,000 each to Terry County and the City of Brownfield to fund home repairs for low income homeowners, helping residents maintain homeownership while providing a shot in the arm to the local economy.

Officials with both the city and county anticipate the funds will help rehabilitate a combined 10 homes owned and lived in by income eligible households.

“Repairing substandard housing is a critical mission of the Department, as it helps preserve homeownership and the health of smaller communities,” said Michael Gerber, TDHCA Executive Director. “It also has the potential to generate numerous construction jobs and the payroll, taxes, and fees that help provide essential services at the local level. We are certain this award will contribute to an improved quality of life for the residents of Terry County.”

TDHCA awards home repair funds to qualifying applicants through the Department’s HOME Investment Partnerships (HOME) Program, which helps repair or replace homes owned and lived in by low income homeowners.

Assistance may include roof repair or replacement, as well as repairs to the electrical and plumbing systems. If a home has deteriorated to the point it no longer is cost effective to repair, it may be demolished and replaced either by a traditional “site built” home or a manufactured home.

Qualifying applicants include eligible cities and counties, public housing authorities, Community Housing Development Organizations and other nonprofit housing groups, and certain for-profit organizations which then work with eligible households at the local level.

The U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development is the funding source for the HOME Program. The program serves households earning no more than 80 percent of the area median family income, which for Brownfield and Terry County equals an annual income of $36,500 for a family for four.
